CHOIR SINGER'S HUSBAND DISAGREES WITH PROCLAIMED DEFENSE OF RECTOR'S WIFE; COMPLETE STATEMENT OF MRS. HALL

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 2.—James Mills, husband of the slain choir singer, today said that he took issue with some of the statements made by Mrs. Hall in her interview with newspapermen yesterday. He claimed that there was a strong bond of sympathy existing between Mrs. Hall and the other witnesses, as did also Detective James Mason. He also said little credence in the statement of Mrs. Gibson, the "pig woman," who claimed that Mrs. Hall was present on the night of the murder at the Phillips farm.

Mills continued that if one could say aside the calm demeanor of Mrs. Hall, one might find something tangible with which to start an investigation. Mills insisted that he saw Mrs. Hall four times on Friday, the day following the murder or twenty-four hours before the bodies were discovered. He also stated that he saw Mrs. Hall on Saturday and that she seemed very much worried.

"I did not see her immediately after the bodies were found but at the times following when I did see her she did not seem to be very much broken up," he was not as much broken up as I was. I had a fainting spell while I was talking to her on the Sunday and she got me some glasses of ammonia, but she did it in a very quiet way," Mills stated.

MRS. HALL TELLS HER STORY

Following is the story told by slain choir singer's widow, concerning her movements, intended to discredit the "pig woman's" tale of the murder.

Mrs. Hall, who has been an enigma since the tragedy on Sept. 14, received newspapermen and answered any and all questions for an hour yesterday. At the end of that time, the composure which she showed at the beginning of the interview was unshaken. The most searching questions had failed in any way to break down her story of her complete innocence.

She declared herself ready to meet Mrs. Gibson face to face and answer her charge that the pastor's widow was present at the double murder.

Not at Murder Scene

The questions and answers follow: Q.—Have you any comment to make, Mrs. Hall, on that part of Mrs. Gibson's statements in which she says you were present on the Phillips farm on the night of Sept. 14?

A.—What comment could I make? Of course that was not so, and that was all.

Q.—You weren't there?

A.—I certainly was not.

Q.—Did you leave your house at any time that night except when you went out with your brother?

A.—No.

Q.—Will you tell us your movements, as near as you can recollect, on the night of Sept. 14?

A.—Would you rather ask questions? Ask me what I was doing.

Q.—Would you like me to split that question up? Will you tell us your movements on the night of Sept. 14.

T. DEWITT CUYLER IS FOUND DEAD IN PRIVATE CAR

Cuyler was prominent in legal circles throughout the country and was counsel for the Pennsylvania.

He had been at Rochester, N. Y., last evening at the Rochester Chamber of Commerce. A porter went to his room early this morning upon getting no response summoned Dr. Bailey, a Pennsylvania railroad physician, who pronounced Cuyler dead.

ALBANIANS REVOLT AGAINST FACIST

Athens, Greece, Nov. 2.—A revolution broke out in Albania and the government has fled to Tirana and taken refuge in the city of Balona according to despatches received here from Florida today. The Albanian troops are reported to be retreating before the revolutionists.

It is also reported that the cause of the revolution is the stand taken by Benito Mussolini when he assumed power in Italy.

This newest revolution it is said will further strain the diplomatic relations existing between the allies and the new Fascist government.

STATE REVENUES INCREASED $3,000,000

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 2.—The revenue of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has increased over three million according to the statement of the Auditor General here today. The total for the fiscal year ending November 30th will amount to more than fifty millions, estimated Auditor General Samuel E. Lewis today.

DISABLED WAR VETS IN DANGER AS FIRE SWEEPS BUILDING

New York, N. Y., Nov. 2.—The lives of more than 25 girls and over 100 disabled war veterans were endangered as flames swept thru the frame building occupied by the New York Institute of Photography.

It was a three alarm fire and the lives of the 100 war veterans were endangered by the dense clouds of smoke which filled the hallways. The veterans were disabled war men who were attending the vocational training schools of the government.

The girls were working on the fifth floor and were led to safety in many cases by the veterans. Several firemen were over come by the dense smoke as they searched the building for possible victims.

The building, which is of frame construction, was razed by fire about two years ago while Caruso was singing in a concert at the Academy of Music a few doors away.

ARCTIC OCEAN GETS TOO WARM FOR SEALS

Washington, Nov. 1.—The Arctic Ocean is warming up, icebergs are growing scarcer and in some places the seals are finding the waters too hot, according to a report to the Commerce Department today from Consul Liff, at Bergen, Norway.

Reports from fishermen, seal hunters and explorers, he declared, all point to a radical change in climatic conditions and hitherto unheard of temperature in the Arctic zone, exploration expeditions reporting that scarcely any ice has been met with as far north as 81 degrees 29 minutes.

Soundings to a depth of 8100 meters showed the Gulf Stream still very warm. Great masses of ice have been replaced by moraines of earth and stones, the report continued, while at many points glaciers have entirely disappeared.

MOVE OF RAILROADS TO ESTABLISH TEN HOUR DAY STARTED

Chicago & Alton Road Takes First Step For Modification of Working Rules.

OTHERS TO FOLLOW

Chicago, Nov. 2.—The first move of the railroads of the country to break up the present working conditions of the railroad employees was made here today by the Chicago & Alton Railroad.

They asked for a modification of the working rules and an extension of the working hours from eight to ten.

"This is the first step of the railroads to get the aid of the government in breaking up the present working rules of the railroad men," said a prominent official of the Engineering and Trainmen's Brotherhood here today. "If the Alton can get this accomplished, it will be only a short time until the other roads of the country will follow in their footsteps."

MICKY WALKER IS NEW WELTERWEIGHT BOXING "CHAMP"

New York, Nov. 1.—Mickey Walker, of Elizabeth, N. J., became the new welterweight boxing champion of the world tonight when he received the decision over Jack Britton, the veteran, titleholder, in a fifteen-round bout in Madison Square Garden. It was one of the most furious contests seen in the battle-scarred arena.

The champion weighed 146 and the challenger, 144½. When the men came into the ring it was officially announced on behalf of the New York Boxing Commission that all betting on the outcome should be declared off because of a late switch in the odds. This afternoon the odds were 6 to 5 in favor of the champion but an hour before the gong rang it had receded to 8 to 5 in favor of Walker. There was a rumor that Britton was not in the best condition.

ILLEGAL BOOZE MAKES MONKEYS OF DRY RAID OFFICERS

Lancaster, Nov. 2.—Two prohibition agents who conducted the raid on twenty hotels in this vicinity are in jail here today to answer to answer charges of disorderly conduct. The men drove into town with several truckloads of confiscated booze and began to create a disturbance. Officials who investigated the affairs stated that the men became intoxicated after sampling too much of Lancaster County's "before the war" booze.

TERRIFIC STORM SWEEPS COAST OF FRANCE AND SPAIN

Paris, Nov. 2.—More than 200 fishing boats were driven ashore and probably many more driven out to sea during a terrific tempest which is sweeping the coasts of France, Spain and Portugal, according to dispatches received here today. A heavy loss of life is expected.

The heavy liners Manchuria, Majestic, George Washington and Minnesota were reported to be riding out the storm in safety.

ABDUCTOR OF GIRL VENUS CAPTURED; CONFESSES CRIME

Pretty Little Michigan Sunday School Girl Is Found Wandering In Woods After Attack.

LYNCHING FEARED

Muskegon, Mich., Nov. 1.—Half nude, her little Sunday school ging-ham dress in tatters, her body covered with bruises, and her features reflecting the agony and terror of her harrowing experiences, 12-year-old Rosalie Shantee, the "living Venus" of the Muskegon beach, was being rushed back to her home here today from Dublin, Mich., where she was found last night in a dazed condition staggering along a bush-clustered abandoned railway grade.

At 1 p. m. today, more than 18 hours after the girl had been found, she had not recovered consciousness. The belief was expressed by an attending physician that she might die. That the girl had been attacked was quickly determined by a physician. It was evident from the circumstances which brought to an end the frantic search through three states, that she had been tossed from the automobile of her abductor after the most brutal treatment.

News of the girl's condition quickly spread through Muskegon, Manistee and Lake counties and residents were aroused. Purses were instantly organized and began searching for the degenerate who had carried the girl away last Sunday after Sunday school.

Muskegon, Mich., Nov. 2.—Raymond Eugene Wilson today confessed to the kidnapping of little Rosalie Shantee, the 12-year-old girl found in the woods near Dublin a few days ago. He took her over one hundred miles away from her home and then assaulted her.

The police continued to grill Wilson and he said, "I drank some moonshine and the first thing I thought of was Rosalie whom I had met in front of her Sunday school last summer. I induced her to take a ride and then drove to Dublin where I assaulted her."

The grilling was going on while little Rosalie is making a brave fight for her life in the little farm house just outside of Dublin.

FOUR PERSONS ILL FROM PARTAKING OF POISONED CAKE

New York, Nov. 2.—Four persons are reported as being seriously ill as the result of eating cake bought at a 134th street bakery here today. Pieces of the poisoned cake have been sent to the municipal chemist for analysis.

The persons poisoned, George Keyes aged 48, Dorothy Sehres aged 24, Nettie Burke aged 28 and Lillian Burke aged 20, were all seized with violent pains immediately after eating the cake.

PURCHASED VALUABLE COAL LANDS

H. B. Swoope, the Madera Coal operator, closed the deal on Monday last whereby he becomes the owner of a fine body of coal in Jordan township. The tract contains 302 acres and was purchased from Mrs. Jennie Nevling, the consideration being $48,462.

WON PRIZE AT PHILIPSBURG

The Hillsdale Zulus participated in the mummer's parade at Philipsburg Tuesday night and were awarded a $10 prize for having the largest number of men in line.

NEW DEVELOPMENTS LACKING IN TIE-UP, NOTHING LEARNED

Colored Girl Escapes From Clearfield Hospital In Nightie and Bare Feet.

SHE IS NOW IN JAIL

Nothing new has developed in the case of Nora Moore, the 16-year-old colored girl found unconscious and tied-hand and foot on the Pennsylvania railroad tracks in the Clearfield County Home on Tuesday night.

There are several peculiar angles to the case and many theories advanced to explain the girl's presence on the track. The fact that the young woman was unconscious, barefooted, and in a nightie, and that her purse tied up with her arms had led some to suggest that she was tied up and placed on the track at the point where she was found as a decoy by designing persons with a view to knocking over and robbing the chance passerby who came to her rescue.

Mr. Gilliland prevented such a happening, if that were the purpose, by flagging the jitney and taking the entire bus load of people to the rescue of the young woman.

The girl started in another more or less thrilling (as another chilling) chapter in her local experience by taking advantage of the absence of a nurse from her room at the Clearfield Hospital and jumping out of the window.

Clad only in her nightgown the girl hopped out the window, her absence being discovered about 6:45 o'clock. A search of the hospital and grounds was quickly made, but no trace of the patient could be found.

The hospital authorities, notified Sheriff Thomas J. Lowell of the affair and asked his assistance in locating the fugitive. Sheriff Lowell and his assistants got promptly on the job and after a little rapid investigation traced the girl's escape to the home of George Jenkins, colored, on Merrill street.

It was learned that after escaping from the hospital she made her way down to the Jenkins home in her bare feet and with nothing about her but her night gown.

The Sheriff questioned her about her escape and she told him she didn't like it at the hospital and would jump out the window again, if he took her back. Sheriff Lowell then told her that if that was the way she felt about it, he would put her in a place where she would not jump out and took her to jail.

An examination by a physician at the hospital showed the girl was not suffering from the effects of any drug, but it is thought from her actions she may be a little off mentally, while those who have had charge of her since she was taken from the railroad track say she is sane.

LITTLE WELSHMAN WILL NOT STAY DOWN

London, Nov. 2.—David Lloyd-George although ill with a heavy cold will be back campaigning by Saturday, stated his physician today. His condition while yet not entirely satisfactory is very much improved. The Conservatives' victory was freely predicted as the result of the municipal elections where the Laborites gained 169 seats in the House of Commons.

This Labor gain was wiped out, it was claimed, by the gains in many outlying places where the ratio of the Conservative gains was greater than the gains in the municipalities.

Mrs. Daisy Thora Johnson just returned from Pittsburgh.

Two Fords and Two Dodges Bang Together On State Road Last Tuesday Afternoon.

NONE ARE HURT

A real automobile smashup occurred on the Clearfield-Philipsburg State road near Blue Ball about 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. No less than four machines were banged up in the wreck or series of wrecks.

P. G. Friedman, of Sunbury, driving a Ford truck with box body in which he carried broom and brush samples was coming from Philipsburg to Clearfield. Near Blue Ball he caught up to J. E. Gearhart of Clearfield, who was traveling in a Dodge sedan.

Friedman turned out to pass the Gearhart car and as he ran by he banged into a Dodge touring car being driven by Oliver Kephart, of Decatur township, which was traveling along well over on the right side of the road.

Mr. Kephart's son in a Ford touring car was coming along right behind his father and to make the thing unanimous the Gearhart sedan and Ford also ran together with a crash.

All four cars were pretty badly smashed, the Gearhart car and the Kephart Ford being the worst used up. Fortunately all the occupants of the several cars escaped with minor bruises.

TWO MEN ARE KILLED WHEN PENNSY TRAIN SIDESWIPES CARS

Norristown, Pa., Nov. 2.—Two railroaders were killed and one probably fatally injured when a fast Pennsylvania freight train sideswiped a draft of freight cars at Whitewater Junction on the Clinton cutoff about two miles below Norristown.

The dead are: Isaac Basle, engineer of Harrisburg; William Sengere, fireman of Harrisburg; and the injured man is John Sowers, brakeman also of Harrisburg.

Twelve cars were piled up in a tangled mass of wreckage.

BANK PRESIDENT IS HELD ON CHARGE OF GRAND LARCENY

New Kensington, Pa., Nov. 2.—John Steiner, President of the New Kensington State Bank, was held here today on the charge of grand larceny following the discovery of a shortage of the bank's funds over $100,000. The shortage was discovered while Steiner was on an European trip. He will be given a formal hearing on Monday.

All the depositors will be protected it was stated by bank officials here today.

CHAMPION JURY STILL DELIBERATING

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 2.—The fate of Mrs. Mabel Champion who is being tried for the murder of B. J. O'Connell, circus man, at his residence on July 25th, hung in the balance as the jury resumed their deliberations this morning. The jury, which is composed of five men and seven women deliberated for five hours yesterday afternoon but could not reach a verdict.

HUNTERS FIND DRY WEATHER OPERATES AGAINST SUCCESS

First Day of 1922 Game Season Results In Disappointments to Hunters in Many Sections.

FEW ACCIDENTS

The first day of the small game hunting season found the woods and fields as dry as an American steamer on the high seas beyond the three mile limit, and as a result the "early bird" hunter did not stand with the success he so fondly looked forward to. Small game had been reported plenty, but what you average the first day bag in this section you will find the average very low.

The fellow intimately acquainted with the game covers adjacent to the town had no trouble getting "birds" but the "run of the mill" hunter who thinks every corner or place of woodland is alive with birds and rabbits met with universal hard luck. He found pheasants scarce and wild, while it was almost impossible for even a good dog to track a rabbit with any success.

Thus far no shooting accidents were reported, which goes to show that while the woods were literally "full" of hunters, they exercised due care and caution.

Out along the Pennfield pike at the top of the mountain, Penn State Park game reserve through which to Pennfield automobiles were parked along the road in one continuous line, while the several hundred occupants searched the adjoining covers for pheasants and rabbits.

This is the first season it has been legal to shoot Ringneck pheasants and as a result many of these handsome game birds were bagged in upper Lawrence township and in the upper end of the county, where they have a fine start.

There are several flocks of wild turkeys in the Crooked Run and Sandborn country but dry weather made it simply impossible to get within shooting distance of the "wild turk" and we have heard of no kills although wild turkeys are also legal game in Clearfield county this year.

REAL PEP MEETING FOR HIGH FOOTBALL ROOTERS FRIDAY EVE.

By DICK LEIPOLD
A real "pep" meeting will be held at the High School Friday evening at 7:30 p. m. the evening preceding the Lock Haven game when Clearfield will meet its strongest 1922 opponent, with the exception of the champion Greensburg eleven.

Friday evening's meeting is expected to be the biggest and best meeting of the season and no supporter of the team can afford to miss it.

Everybody is invited and everybody interested in the team is expected to be present.

It promises to be a rip-roaring affair. The students will practice their yells and songs and talks will be made by the coach, the team, the students and the team's outside friends.

YOUNG MINISTER FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER

Spartanboro, Ga., Nov. 1.—Elliot Padrick, youthful former Methodist preacher, who was found guilty of first degree murder in connection with the killing of his mother-in-law, Mamie Lou Dixon, last June, was returning a verdict today at night, with a recommendation of mercy. The verdict, which carries a sentence of life imprisonment, was reached after deliberations of the jury which lasted until 9 o'clock this morning.

PENN STATE WILL BE UNDER DOG IN FIGHT WITH NAVY HUSKIES

Washington, D. C. Nov. 2.—A silent but grim and determined looking aggregation, the Penn State foot ball squad, arrived here this morning and was spirited away to the Columbia Country Club on the outskirts of the city to await the all-important encounter with the Navy in the local baseball park tomorrow afternoon. The stocky Hugo Bezdek, coach of the Nittany Lions, as usual had nothing to say as to State's prospects in the coming gridiron classic. Several State players showed the effects of the hard scrimmage they went through in the past three days preparing for their big test of the season.

The State-Navy game will be the first of championship calibre that the official Washingtonians have ever witnessed. Aside from the several thousand partisans from each school he crowd will be neutral and contain most of the U. S. and foreign government officials located in Washington. The game will be a rare treat for them.

The State players realize that Navy is out to turn last Saturday's defeat at the hands of the University of Pennsylvania into a victory of revenge to regain lost prestige. Although they are battered and torn from the absence of Schuster and possibly Bentz and McMahon, all veteran line men, the State eleven imbued its old time fighting spirit from the rousing send-off by the students at State College last night and will fight to the last whistle. Without the famous Glenn Killinger, All-American quarterback of last year, the Lions have an uphill fight and recent developments make them the underdog in the fray. State expects her line to be outweighed fifteen pounds per man, and her backfield is much lighter than that of Navy. Kratz, their new half back, weighs only 145 pounds.

Penn State's military band of fifty pieces will arrive tomorrow morning with several hundred student rosters. Military training is compulsory for the first two years at State, and in a way the game will resemble an Army-Navy contest minus the uniformed cadets.

The Penn State squad includes the following players: Hufford, Frank, Artelt and McCov, tackles; Bodeak, Logre and Johnson, tackles; Bodeak, Flock, Ellwood and Prevost, guards; Bentz, Hamilton and Murray, centers; Palm and Patton quarterbacks.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

It has long been known that the digestive apparatus has the power to change starches into the form of sugar that the system most readily assimilates—namely, glucose. It has been understood, also, that the sugar thus supplied to the blood serves a very important part in keeping up the bodily functions. But few physicians, probably, have more than vaguely suspected the direct life-saving function of glucose in the blood, as revealed by some recent experiment made at the famous Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minnesota.

The crucial experiments in question consisted in the removal of the liver of a dog, an operation performed, of course, under anesthesia. The animal recovers, and for a time seems altogether normal. Then it begins to show symptoms of illness, and presently goes into a collapse, in which it lies quite motionless, even muscle relaxed, apparently in a dying condition: If left to itself, it will live only a few hours.

But if, when the animal is at the very point of death, a certain quantity of a solution of glucose is injected into its veins, the result is altogether extraordinary. The experienced physicians who made the experiment describe it, in a technical publication, as one of the most remarkable physiological phenomena they have ever observed. They report that the animal lying there comatose and perfectly flaccid, is restored immediately to a seemingly normal condition by the injection of glucose.

Within thirty seconds after the injection, the animal may get to its feet. In less than one minute it walks about, responds to calls, wags its tail, drinks water, and in general resumes all the appearance of health. Even if the convulsion that usually precedes death has developed, the same restorative influence is exerted almost instantly. An animal has even been restored after the cessation of breathing, by maintaining artificial respiration until the glucose could be injected.

If the agency producing such extraordinary results were some new drug, it would be heralded as an amazing addition to the equipment of the physician. That ordinary glucose, a familiar kind of sugar, can work such a miracle is even more astonishing. The experiments give new clues to the function of sugar in the blood; and it is not to be doubted that the knowledge thus acquired will presently be applicable for the alleviation of human maladies.

Every person in the United States will have to eat forty-eight pounds more of potatoes this year if the present crop is to be consumed, according to the U. S. Department of Markets. Normal consumption of potatoes is said to be 3.2 bushels per person, but the bumper crop of this season has resulted in a supply equal to four bushels for each individual. Production is estimated at 433,000,000 bushels.

sy and insanity was outlined by Dr. William Held in an address at an epilepsy clinic at the Illinois Post-Graduate Medical School Tuesday last.

"Epilepsy and insanity are not 'taints,'" Dr. Held declared. "They are simply the result of harmonious functioning of the ductless glands, and they can be cured."

Improper functioning of the glands, he said, produces a toxic condition which results in a "mental cloud." His method of treatment is to determine the glandular deficiency of excess by blood tests and then to restore harmony in the system by injecting suitable glandular extracts.

Dr. Held told the clinic that he had offered President Harding to treat without charge, one hundred cases of returned soldiers suffering from epilepsy.

TOO MUCH MEAT HURTS KIDNEYS

Take a glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if bladder bothers you.

Eating too much meat may produce kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid excites the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so that it no longer irritates, thus often ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.

WRESTLERS READY

FOR BUSINESS

Local wrestling fans will have the opportunity of seeing Bill Gardner,
the local wrestling champ in action
once more, after several months layoff, by attending the wrestling bout
at the Globe theatre on Friday evening when Young Strangler Lewis
will endeavor to pin Bill's muscular shoulders to the mat twice within an hour. That is some job all will admit who have seen Gardner "under fire"
in the past.

Young Strangler Lewis appears to
think he can do the job and stands
to lose a nice bundle of kopecks if he doesn't make good. He also says
he would like to meet Leslie Roberts
the former Boardman mat artist for a purse, side bet or any way Roberts and his friends want it.

Nick Bodinis and Ed Gustafson
will meet in the second bout. Bodinis is touted as champion middleweight wrestler of the U. S. Army and this match will also be worth while.

A good preliminary is also on the program for Friday evening.

Selecting Rugs for Home.

One of the most important things to consider, when selecting rugs for the home, is that the rug should har-

Velvet, Crystal and Silver For Formal Evening Gown

By HEDDA HOYT

Velvet for The United Press
New York, Nov. 1.—(United Press)
It is a fallacy this fall to attempt to design any certain type of silhouette or material for the formal evening gown. It simply can not be done. Materials have never been so varied nor have they been used in such elaborate combinations. The silhouette has but one universal idea—length.

One may be straight-lined, semi-draped, as tightly swathed as a mummy, or as bouffant as an early Victorian,
and still be in style if one has length of hemline.

Chiffon velvet has the preference for the formal gown and is favored in shades of rose, jade, sapphire blue and amber. When tightly draped about the figure, the velvet gown is usually unadorned, except for the rhinestone buckle which holds the side drape in place.

In the straight-line models, which fall from the shoulder and only slightly emphasize the figure, these velvets are also heavily beaded in crystal or steel beads or trimmed in ermine.
The bouffant types, with the distended hip line, often have flowers of metallic cloth applied in wreath design just above the wide scalloped hem. In nearly every instance the evening gown for this year is left entirely sleeveless, though the shoulder is cut a trifle wider than formerly.

As a trimming for the velvet gown ermine undoubtedly holds the lead. It is prettily used on a gown of bottle green as a narrow border for the circular hem, as a neck and arm finish and in the twisted girle. Again it is seen on a long-bodied gown of black velvet outlining the side panels. Black is usually ornamented in some way this season; either in beading, in silver lace or with touches of fur.

Jenny is responsible for a lovely flame colored gown which has long, silver-lined panels falling from the waist and a silver beaded belt. Many of the Jenny models show a sharply defined contrast between the bodice and the skirt. A pretty frock utilizing this idea has its white velvet-bead-ed bodice and black velvet skirt joined at the low waist line with a rolled puff of black velvet. Brocaded materials used as bodices and combined with plain skirts also follow the above plan and for the home dressmaker this is perhaps the easiest of the elaborate models which permits copying.

Entire gowns of brocaded metallic cloth are noticed among the imports.
One attractive gown of this type is of gold and orange brocaded, trimmed about the hem with a border of black monkey fur.

For the dancing frock, chiffon is considered the smartest, as well as the most serviceable material. It is especially nice on the young girl whose proportions do not permit the wearing of the more sumptuous velvets. A gown, designed expressly for the mad emoiselle, has a long slender bodice of blue taffeta with a skirt of many tiers of chiffon of the same shade, of blue, gathered into ruffles. Lavender velvet roses finish the low waist line and the off-the-shoulder neckline. The young miss of this season prefers quaint, piquant types of frocks with the slightly wired hips to the form-fitting silhouettes. Where one has square, ungainly shoulders, the bertha effects may be used in preference to the wide shoulder line.

Choir Singer's

as near as you can recollect?

A.—On that evening?

Q.—Yes.

Events of Evening

A.—We had our supper about 6:30 and I went out on the porch for a little while. After that I had Mr.
Hall's little niece with me, his brother was there and Mr. Hall was here at supper time. I stayed out on the porch for a while and then a little later came in with this little girl that was with me and played games with her for a while until half past eight or a quarter to nine, somewhere along there, and put her to bed—went upstairs at least and put her to bed and came down again, somewhere around after nine. I should say, and and sat here in the library reading until about half past 10, and then I went upstairs and prepared for bed and waited for Mr. Hall to come in, and I went to bed but I did not go to sleep.

Q.—And between the time that he left the house and the time that you went out with your brother in the early morning and did not at any time leave this house?

—No.

Q.—Do you know now Mrs. Hall, from whom that telephone call was from that evening?

A.—They told me it was from a Mrs. Mills, but I only know that from the outside.

Q.—You did not overhear any of the conversation?

—No.

Never on Phillips' Farm

Q.—Have you ever been to the Phillips farm in your life that you know of?

A.—I did not know until later that it was the old DeRussey place. As a child I have been there twice.

Q.—About how long were you absent from your house Thursday night?

A.—It was about half past two when I dressed and got up, and I was back here about half past three. It was about that time.

Sits Motionless

Mrs. Hall sat motionless most of the time during the interview. Dressed in a simple black dress with a silk scarf thrown over her shoulders, her garb set off her white hair and pale complexion.

She answered questions in a low but audible voice. Once or twice she smiled.

Only once did she object to a question. That was when her attitude toward divorce and what she would have done had she been informed of the pastor's romance with the choir singer was asked.

"I cannot answer that," she said firmly, and that was all there was to it.

The pastor's widow explained her silence since the tragedy, that she had all her life sought to avoid publicity.

She said she wanted no one punished for the crime.

"I believe a murderer is not a fit person to be at large," she said "but I have absolutely no feeling of vindictiveness."

At the end of the interview she was calm and smiling as she said good-bye.

The interview took place in the front parlor of the Stevens home in Nichol ave.

This was the home of Dr. Hall also,

Some Age-Old Superstitions.
Many people would rather "die"
than decorate any part of the house with peacocks' feathers, and to open an umbrella in the house is equally unlucky. Spilling salt is a real disaster, and the only way to get rid of the inevitable result is to fling a pinch to the fairies' over the left shoulder.

and there were knickknacks and ornaments about the place reminiscent of the pastor and his home life with Mrs.
Hall.

Mrs. Gibson Protests

Mrs. Gibson told reporters today that "they are seeking to discredit my story to protect the woman I named as present at the murders."

She made this assertion over the telephone, reporters unanimously using that mode of communication with her since she fired at shotgun at a group of photographers yesterday.

"People who are attacking me want money and influence and the people they want to protect have money and influence and that explains the whole business," Mrs. Gibson charged.

"I am sorry for this woman. But this thing was on my mind, and I just had to tell it after I saw that other people who knew all about it had no intention of giving their information to authorities."

Mrs. Gibson will be confronted with the three male suspects to see if she can identify one of them as the mur-derer, it was learned today.

The suspects will be lined up before her with a dozen others.

Moving Literature.
Alice—"Don't you think a cookery book is fascinating?" Clara—"Yes, indeed. It contains so many stirring incidents."

Discreet Preference.
"Would you rather be photographed than interviewed?" "Yes," replied Senator Sorghum. "What you look like may not help you much, but here's no chance of its being as embarrassing as what you happen to say."

Ermine "Royal"
The beauty of ermine caused it to be worn by royalty and it was made a unishable offense for any persons except those of royal birth to wear it.
This restriction has long been removed,
but the fur still enjoys royal favor.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"— bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c and 50c.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS

CURWENSVILLE

Bruce Porter of Clearfield circulated among Curwensville friends and acquaintances yesterday.

James Maneval, a musician in the U. S. navy, and located at the Norfolk navy yard, came home yesterday to attend the funeral of his adopted mother, Mrs. Wilson Maneval.

Steve Myrsky, who moved to Cleveland about three years ago, has brought his family back to Curwensville where they will reside in the future. Steve says that if a man cannot make a living in Clearfield county, there is not much use of his trying anywhere else.

William Gardlock and his father, Chris Gardlock, who have been working at Greenville, Pa., during the summer, are home for a few days visit with their respective families. William expects to return to the western part of the State this coming Friday.

J. M. McKinley came home from Clearfield hospital Tuesday where he underwent an operation, having had some bones removed from his nose which had been giving him considerable trouble for some time. He expects to be greatly benefited by having the obstruction removed.

The dance held in the American Legion rooms Tuesday evening proved to be a great success, both from a financial and social standpoint. The rooms were crowded all the evening with dancers and spectators, both participants and onlookers passing an unusually entertaining evening.

The pupils in the juvenile departments of the public schools held an entertainment of their own Tuesday afternoon. Many of them were costumed, and after rehearsing a short literary program were treated to refreshments consisting of candy, cakes and ice cream, which the little shavers devoured with great relish, wishing that "All Saints Day" would come at least one day in every week. Miss Aurand and the two Misses Moore joined forces and had their pupils all in one room, and that trio certainly gave the kids a most pleasant afternoon. Locust street and South Side teachers entertained with about the same program, in their respective departments.

A change has been consummated in business circles this week. The James L. Smith furniture emporium has been taken over by John L. McLaughlin and Edward Gallagher, who purchased the entire stock and store fixtures, and took possession of the same on Wednesday morning. The new firm will be known as the McLaughlin Furniture Company, and the business will be conducted principally by Mr. McLaughlin, who has had a number of years' experience along that line and is thoroughly acquainted with the trade. Failing health was Mr. Smith's reason for disposing of his store. The purchasers are both young men with hustling ability and predictions have been made already that they will soon do a thriving business, not only in this town but the surrounding territory as well.

On Monday evening Mrs. Dean Hile, together with thirty-five of her mother's friends, arranged a masquerade Halloween surprise party for Mrs. Hile's mother, Mrs. Elmer Bloom, State street, who was very much surprised to say the least. The event was a royal success from start to finish. Prizes were given for the most artistically dressed Halloweeners. Mrs. Ashley McDowell, Mrs. J. C. Collins and Miss Isabel Smay were the fortunate ones to win prizes. One feature of the evening's entertainment was a mock wedding, the bride being White and the groom Black. Delicious refreshments were served and when all were ready to depart for their homes, voted the party to have been the best that it had ever been their privilege to attend.

Saturday afternoon Curwensville football fans will have another chance to see the C. H. S. squad in action on the home grounds. The Cooper township harvesters will be on hand and will make a big effort to win out on the tally sheet. The Cooperites have a record as a pretty nifty team and play the game for all there is to be gotten out of it. Neither the C. H. S. nor Cooper team is composed of roughnecks, so that all who wish to see a clean, hard-fought contest paddle down to the old ball ground on Saturday afternoon, drop your admittance fee into the mitt of the man at the gate and root for all your lungs are worth.

What Else?
"Do you think women should propose?" asked the elderly lady. "I don't know," mused the young maid. "Have you tried anything else?"

GETTING YOUR MONEY'S WORTH WHEN YOU SPEND MONEY FOR SHOES

Frankly, it's a matter of selecting the shoes that have a reputation to maintain. When the lines were selected for this store, they were chosen from lines which I knew would give the utmost in wear for the money invested.

A MASQUERADE DANCE

A masquerade dance and party was held at the residence of Emmett B. Leas, 608 Martin street, last evening. The evening was spent in playing games and dancing. About seventy-five were present. After refreshments were served and all departed for their homes.

Onar Khoyyam.

Onar Khoyyam was a Persian poet, astronomer and mathematician, born at Nishapur, in Khorasan. His scientific works, which were of high value in their day, have been eclipsed by his "Rubaiyat," a collection of about 500 epigrams in praise of wine, love and pleasure, and at the same time depressingly pessimistic. He died in Nishapur in 1123.

Endless Romance Nipped.

I was eight and he was ten. We attended the same school and our two graces were in the same room. When 4 o'clock came his grade rose and marched out of the room first. When he reached the door he would turn toward me slightly and I would wink at him. One evening the teacher caught me whispering and kept me after school. You can imagine that put a quick stop to that budding romance. —Chicago Journal.

Birds With Copper Feathers.

In the bird house up at the north end of the Zoological park in New York is a cage of toucans, an African bird of brilliantly colored plumage. YOUNG LADIES ENTERTAIN AT DELIGHTFUL MASQUERADE

Halloween sprites, goblins and witches to the number of twenty-five carried after the usual Saints' Day festivities to attend a post-Halloween party given in the Ladies' Rest Room at the Driving Park last evening by Misses Kathryn Remmsnyder and Margaret Wyant, and Mrs. Guy Fenton. The hostesses had arranged a full evening of entertainment for their guests and the entire party made merry at many new and unique games. Lunch provided an enjoyable interim in the series of stunts and added to the reputation of the hostesses as the best of entertainers. It was indeed a most complete and merry party, voted by all those attending as the best of the season.

First Users of Cigarettes?

The cigarette was popular in Spain in the latter part of the Eighteenth century. The cigarette was invented in the Spanish West Indies at least a far back as 1750, and in his "Travels in Spain," published in 1775, Richard Twiss refers to the many Spaniards who "smoke tobacco shired fine and wrap up in a piece of paper."

McCloskey of Clearfield county.

Capt. Austin served as postmaster during the McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft presidential administrations. In the Spanish-American War he served in Porto Rico under Col. Willis J. Hallings as commander of Company A, Sixteenth Pennsylvania Regiment. Among his friends he is known as "Capt. Jack."

CHOIR SINGER'S HUSBAND DISAGREES WITH PROCLAIMED DEFENSE OF RECTOR'S WIFE; COMPLETE STATEMENT OF MRS. HALL

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 2.—James Mills, husband of the slain choir singer, today said that he took issue with some of the statements made by Mrs. Hall in her interview with newspapermen yesterday. He claimed that there was a strong bond of sympathy existing between Mrs. Hall and the other witnesses, as did also Detective James Mason. He also said little credence in the statement of Mrs. Gibson, the "pig woman," who claimed that Mrs. Hall was present on the night of the murder at the Phillips farm.

Mills continued that if one could say aside the calm demeanor of Mrs. Hall, one might find something tangible with which to start an investigation. Mills insisted that he saw Mrs. Hall four times on Friday, the day following the murder or twenty-four hours before the bodies were discovered. He also stated that he saw Mrs. Hall on Saturday and that she seemed very much worried.

"I did not see her immediately after the bodies were found but at the times following when I did see her she did not seem to be very much broken up," she was not as much broken up as I was. I had a fainting spell while I was talking to her on the Sunday and she got me some quantity of ammonia, but she did it in a very quiet way," Mills stated.

MRS. HALL TELLS HER STORY

Following is the story told by slain choir singer's widow, concerning her movements, intended to discredit the "pig woman's" tale of the murder.

Mrs. Hall, who has been an enigma since the tragedy on Sept. 14, received newspapermen and answered any and all questions for an hour yesterday. At the end of that time, the composure which she showed at the beginning of the interview was unshaken. The most searching questions had failed in any way to break down her story of her complete innocence.

She declared herself ready to meet Mrs. Gibson face to face and answer her charge that the pastor's widow was present at the double murder.

Not at Murder Scene

The questions and answers follow: Q.—Have you any comment to make, Mrs. Hall, on that part of Mrs. Gibson's statements in which she says you were present on the Phillips farm on the night of Sept. 14?

A.—What comment could I make? Of course that was not so, and that was all.

Q.—You weren't there?

A.—I certainly was not.

Q.—Did you leave your house at any time that night except when you went out with your brother?

A.—No.

Q.—Will you tell us your movements, as near as you can recollect, on the night of Sept. 14?

A.—Would you rather ask questions? Ask me what I was doing.

Q.—Would you like me to split that question up? Will you tell us your movements on the night of Sept. 14.

ALBANIANS REVOLT AGAINST FACIST

Athens, Greece, Nov. 2.—A revolution broke out in Albania and the government has fled to Tirana and taken refuge in the city of Balona according to despatches received here from Florida today. The Albanian troops are reported to be retreating before the revolutionists.

It is also reported that the cause of the revolution is the stand taken by Benito Mussolini when he assumed power in Italy.

DISABLED WAR VETS IN DANGER AS FIRE SWEEPS BUILDING

New York, N. Y., Nov. 2.—The lives of more than 25 girls and over 100 disabled war veterans were endangered as flames swept thru the frame building occupied by the New York Institute of Photography.

It was a three alarm fire and the lives of the 100 war veterans were endangered by the dense clouds of smoke which filled the hallways. The veterans were disabled war men who were attending the vocational training schools of the government.

The girls were working on the fifth floor and were led to safety in many cases by the veterans. Several firemen were over come by the dense smoke as they searched the building for possible victims.

The building, which is of frame construction, was razed by fire about two years ago while Caruso was singing in a concert at the Academy of Music a few doors away.

ARCTIC OCEAN GETS TOO WARM FOR SEALS

Washington, Nov. 1.—The Arctic Ocean is warming up, icebergs are growing scarcer and in some places the seals are finding the waters too hot, according to a report to the Commerce Department today from Consul Liff, at Bergen, Norway.

Reports from fishermen, seal hunters and explorers, he declared, all point to a radical change in climatic conditions and hitherto unheard of temperature in the Arctic zone, exploration expeditions reporting that scarcely any ice has been met with as far north as 81 degrees 29 minutes.

Soundings to a depth of 8100 meters showed the Gulf Stream still very warm. Great masses of ice have been replaced by moraines of earth and stones, the report continued, while at many points glaciers have entirely disappeared.

Chicago & Alton Road Takes First Step For Modification of Working Rules.

OTHERS TO FOLLOW

Chicago, Nov. 2.—The first move of the railroads of the country to break up the present working conditions of the railroad employees was made here today by the Chicago & Alton Railroad.

They asked for a modification of the working rules and an extension of the working hours from eight to ten.

"This is the first step of the railroads to get the aid of the government in breaking up the present working rules of the railroad men," said a prominent official of the Engineering and Trainmen's Brotherhood here today. "If the Alton can get this accomplished, it will be only a short time until the other roads of the country will follow in their footsteps."

MICKY WALKER IS NEW WELTERWEIGHT BOXING "CHAMP"

New York, Nov. 1.—Mickey Walker, of Elizabeth, N. J., became the new welterweight boxing champion of the world tonight when he received the decision over Jack Britton, the veteran, titleholder, in a fifteen-round bout in Madison Square Garden. It was one of the most furious contests seen in the battle-scarred arena.

The champion weighed 146 and the challenger, 144½. When the men came into the ring it was officially announced on behalf of the New York Boxing Commission that all betting on the outcome should be declared off because of a late switch in the odds. This afternoon the odds were 6 to 5 in favor of the champion but an hour before the gong rang it had receded to 8 to 5 in favor of Walker. There was a rumor that Britton was not in the best condition.

ILLICIT BOOZE MAKES MONKEYS OF DRY RAID OFFICERS

Lancaster, Nov. 2.—Two prohibition agents who conducted the raid on twenty hotels in this vicinity are in jail here today to answer to answer charges of disorderly conduct. The men drove into town with several truckloads of confiscated booze and began to create a disturbance.

Officials who investigated the affairs stated that the men became intoxicated after sampling too much of Lancaster County's "before the war" booze.

TERRIFIC STORM SWEEPS COAST OF FRANCE AND SPAIN

Paris, Nov. 2.—More than 200 fishing boats were driven ashore and probably many more driven out to sea during a terrific tempest which is sweeping the coasts of France, Spain and Portugal, according to dispatches received here today. A heavy loss of life is expected.

The heavy liners Manchuria, Majestic, George Washington and Minnesota were reported to be riding out the storm in safety.

ABDUCTOR OF GIRL VENUS CAPTURED; CONFESSES CRIME

Pretty Little Michigan Sunday School Girl Is Found Wandering In Woods After Attack.

LYNCHING FEARED

Muskegon, Mich., Nov. 1.—Half nude, her little Sunday school ging-ham dress in tatters, her body covered with bruises, and her features reflecting the agony and terror of her harrowing experiences, 12-year-old Rosalie Shantee, the "living Venus" of the Muskegon beach, was being rushed back to her home here today from Dublin, Mich., where she was found last night in a dazed condition staggering along a bush-clustered abandoned railway grade.

At 1 p. m. today, more than 18 hours after the girl had been found, she had not recovered consciousness. The belief was expressed by an attending physician that she might die. That the girl had been attacked was quickly determined by a physician. It was evident from the circumstances which brought to an end the frantic search through three states, that she had been tossed from the automobile of her abductor after the most brutal treatment.

News of the girl's condition quickly spread through Muskegon, Manistee and Lake counties and residents were aroused. Purses were instantly organized and began searching for the degenerate who had carried the girl away last Sunday after Sunday school.

Muskegon, Mich., Nov. 2.—Raymond Eugene Wilson today confessed to the kidnapping of little Rosalie Shantee, the 12-year-old girl found in the woods near Dublin a few days ago. He took her over one hundred miles away from her home and then assaulted her.

The police continued to grill Wilson and he said, "I drank some moonshine and the first thing I thought of was Rosalie whom I had met in front of her Sunday school last summer. I induced her to take a ride and then drove to Dublin where I assaulted her."

The grilling was going on while little Rosalie is making a brave fight for her life in the little farm house just outside of Dublin.

The persons poisoned, George Keyes aged 48, Dorothy Sehres aged 24, Nettie Burke aged 28 and Lillian Burke aged 20, were all seized with violent pains immediately after eating the cake.

NEW DEVELOPMENTS LACKING IN TIE-UP, NOTHING LEARNED

Colored Girl Escapes From Clearfield Hospital In Nightie and Bare Feet.

SHE IS NOW IN JAIL

Nothing new has developed in the case of Nora Moore, the 16-year-old colored girl found unconscious and tied-hand and foot on the Pennsylvania railroad tracks in the Clearfield County Home on Tuesday night.

There are several peculiar angles to the case and many theories advanced to explain the girl's presence on the track. The fact that the young woman was unconscious, barefooted, and in a nightie, and that her purse tied up with her arms had led some to suggest that she was tied up and placed on the track at the point where she was found as a decoy by designing persons with a view to knocking over and robbing the chance passerby who came to her rescue.

Mr. Gilliland prevented such a happening, if that were the purpose, by flagging the jitney and taking the entire bus load of people to the rescue of the young woman.

The girl started in another more or less thrilling (as another chilling) chapter in her local experience by taking advantage of the absence of a nurse from her room at the Clearfield Hospital and jumping out of the window.

Clad only in her nightgown the girl hopped out the window, her absence being discovered about 6:45 o'clock. A search of the hospital and grounds was quickly made, but no trace of the patient could be found.

The hospital authorities, notified Sheriff Thomas J. Lowell of the affair and asked his assistance in locating the fugitive. Sheriff Lowell and his assistants got promptly on the job and after a little rapid investigation traced the girl's disappearance to the home of George Jenkins, colored, on Merrill street.

It was learned that after escaping from the hospital she made her way down to the Jenkins home in her bare feet and with nothing about her but her night gown.

The Sheriff questioned her about her escape and she told him she didn't like it at the hospital and would jump out the window again, if he took her back. Sheriff Lowell then told her that if that was the way she felt about it, he would put her in a place where she would not jump out and took her to jail.

An examination by a physician at the hospital showed the girl was not suffering from the effects of any drug, but it is thought from her actions she may be a little off mentally, while those who have had charge of her since she was taken from the railroad track say she is sane.

LITTLE WELSHMAN WILL NOT STAY DOWN

London, Nov. 2.—David Lloyd-George although ill with a heavy cold will be back campaigning by Saturday, stated his physician today. His condition while yet not entirely satisfactory is very much improved. The Conservatives' victory was freely predicted as the result of the municipal elections where the Laborites gained 169 seats in the House of Commons.

This Labor gain was wiped out, it was claimed, by the gains in many outlying places where the ratio of the Conservative gains was greater than the gains in the municipalities.

Two Fords and Two Dodges Bang Together On State Road Last Tuesday Afternoon.

NONE ARE HURT

A real automobile smashup occurred on the Clearfield-Philipsburg State road near Blue Ball about 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. No less than four machines were banged up in the wreck or series of wrecks.

P. G. Friedman, of Sunbury, driving a Ford truck with box body in which he carried broom and brush samples was coming from Philipsburg to Clearfield. Near Blue Ball he caught up to J. E. Gearhart of Clearfield, who was traveling in a Dodge sedan.

Friedman turned out to pass the Gearhart car and as he ran by he banged into a Dodge touring car being driven by Oliver Kephart, of Decatur township, which was traveling along well over on the right side of the road.

Mr. Kephart's son in a Ford touring car was coming along right behind his father and to make the thing unanimous the Gearhart sedan and Ford also ran together with a crash.

All four cars were pretty badly smashed, the Gearhart car and the Kephart Ford being the worst used up. Fortunately all the occupants of the several cars escaped with minor bruises.

TWO MEN ARE KILLED WHEN PENNSY TRAIN SIDESWIPES CARS

Norristown, Pa., Nov. 2.—Two railroaders were killed and one probably fatally injured when a fast Pennsylvania freight train sideswiped a draft of freight cars at Whitewater Junction on the Clinton cutoff about two miles below Norristown.

The dead are: Isaac Basle, engineer of Harrisburg; William Sengere, fireman of Harrisburg; and the injured man is John Sowers, brakeman also of Harrisburg.

Twelve cars were piled up in a tangled mass of wreckage.

The shortage was discovered while Steiner was on an European trip. He will be given a formal hearing on Monday.

All the depositors will be protected it was stated by bank officials here today.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 2.—The fate of Mrs. Mabel Champion who is being tried for the murder of B. J. O'Connell, circus man, at his residence on July 25th, hung in the balance as the jury resumed their deliberations this morning. The jury, which is composed of five men and seven women deliberated for five hours yesterday afternoon but could not reach a verdict.

HUNTERS FIND DRY WEATHER OPERATES AGAINST SUCCESS

First Day of 1922 Game Season Results In Disappointments to Hunters in Many Sections.

FEW ACCIDENTS

The first day of the small game hunting season found the woods and fields as dry as an American steamer on the high seas beyond the three mile limit, and as a result the "early bird" hunter did not stand with the success he so fondly looked forward to. Small game had been reported plenty, but what you average the first day bag in this section you will find the average very low.

The fellow intimately acquainted with the game covers adjacent to the town had no trouble getting "birds" but the "run of the mill" hunter who thinks every corner or place of woodland is alive with birds and rabbits met with universal hard luck. He found pheasants scarce and wild, while it was almost impossible for even a good dog to track a rabbit with any success.

Thus far no shooting accidents were reported, which goes to show that while the woods were literally "full" of hunters, they exercised due care and caution.

Out along the Pennfield pike at the top of the mountain, Pennfield Park game reserve through which to Pennfield automobiles were parked along the road in one continuous line, while the several hundred occupants searched the adjoining covers for pheasants and rabbits.

This is the first season it has been legal to shoot Ringneck pheasants and as a result many of these handsome game birds were bagged in upper Lawrence township and in the upper end of the county, where they have a fine start.

There are several flocks of wild turkeys in the Crooked Swamp and Sandborn countries but dry weather made it simply impossible to get within shooting distance of the "wild turk" and we have heard of no kills although wild turkeys are also legal game in Clearfield county this year.

REAL PEP MEETING FOR HIGH FOOTBALL ROOTERS FRIDAY EVE.

By DICK LEIPOLD
A real "pep" meeting will be held at the High School Friday evening at 7:30 p. m. the evening preceding the Lock Haven game when Clearfield will meet its strongest 1922 opponent, with the exception of the champion Greensburg eleven.

Friday evening's meeting is expected to be the biggest and best meeting of the season and no supporter of the team can afford to miss it.

Everybody is invited and everybody interested in the team is expected to be present.

It promises to be a rip-roaring affair. The students will practice their yells and songs and talks will be made by the coach, the team, the students and the team's outside friends.

YOUNG MINISTER FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER

Spartanboro, Ga., Nov. 1.—Elliot Padrick, youthful former Methodist preacher, who was found guilty of first degree murder in connection with the killing of his mother-in-law, Mamie Lou Dixon, last June, was returning a verdict today.

The verdict, a recommendation of mercy, with a recommendation of mercy. The verdict, a recommendation of mercy, with a recommendation of mercy.

The jury's verdict was reached after deliberation of the case that lasted until 9 o'clock this morning.

PENN STATE WILL BE UNDER DOG IN FIGHT WITH NAVY HUSKIES

Washington, D. C. Nov. 2.—A silent but grim and determined looking aggregation, the Penn State foot ball squad, arrived here this morning and was spirited away to the Columbia Country Club on the outskirts of the city to await the all-important encounter with the Navy in the local baseball park tomorrow afternoon. The stocky Hugo Bezdek, coach of the Nittany Lions, as usual had nothing to say as to State's prospects in the coming gridiron classic. Several State players showed the effects of the hard scrimmage they went through in the past three days preparing for their big test of the season.

The State-Navy game will be the first of championship calibre that the official Washingtonians have ever witnessed. Aside from the several thousand partisans from each school he crowd will be neutral and contain most of the U. S. and foreign government officials located in Washington. The game will be a rare treat for them.

The State players realize that Navy is out to turn last Saturday's defeat at the hands of the University of Pennsylvania into a victory of revenge to regain lost prestige. Although they are battered and torn from the absence of Schuster and possibly Bentz and McMahon, all veteran line men. The State eleven imbued its old time fighting spirit from the rousing send-off by the students at State College last night and will fight to the last whistle. Without the famous Glenn Killinger, All-American quarterback of last year, the Lions have an uphill fight and recent developments make them the underdog in the fray. State expects her line to be outweighed fifteen pounds per man, and her backfield is much lighter than that of Navy. Kratz, their new half back weighs only 145 pounds.

Penn State's military band of fifty pieces will arrive tomorrow morning with several hundred student rosters. Military training is compulsory for the first two years at State, and in a way the game will resemble an Army-Navy contest minus the uniformed cadets.

The Penn State squad includes the following players: Hufford, Frank, Artelt and McCov. McKMahon, Logre and Johnson, tackles; Bodeak, Flock, Ellwood and Prevost, guards; Bentz, Hamilton and Murray, centers; Palm and Patton quarterbacks.

Now, when competition for every position is at its keenest, you'll have to keep your body in the best of condition. You'll have to build up what you tear down and build it rapidly as possible.

You'll find that milk will do this and do it quicker than any food you could put in your system. It is a proven fact that scientists have found that milk contains all the nutrients of several other foods combined and that all of them are body builders.

We are putting pasteurized milk before all other kinds because it not only contains all the nutrient of fresh cow's milk, but it will also be absolutely free from all impurities.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

It has long been known that the digestive apparatus has the power to change starches into the form of sugar that the system most readily assimilates—namely, glucose. It has been understood, also, that the sugar thus supplied to the blood serves a very important part in keeping up the bodily functions. But few physicians, probably, have more than vaguely suspected the direct life-saving function of glucose in the blood, as revealed by some recent experiment made at the famous Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minnesota.

The crucial experiments in question consisted in the removal of the liver of a dog, an operation performed, of course, under anesthesia. The animal recovers, and for a time seems altogether normal. Then it begins to show symptoms of illness, and presently goes into a collapse, in which it lies quite motionless, even muscle relaxed, apparently in a dying condition: If left to itself, it will live only a few hours.

But if, when the animal is at the very point of death, a certain quantity of a solution of glucose is injected into its veins, the result is altogether extraordinary. The experienced physicians who made the experiment describe it, in a technical publication, as one of the most remarkable physiological phenomena they have ever observed. They report that the animal lying there comatose and perfectly flaccid, is restored immediately to a seemingly normal condition by the injection of glucose.

Within thirty seconds after the injection, the animal may get to its feet. In less than one minute it walks about, responds to calls, wags its tail, drinks water, and in general resumes all the appearance of health. Even if the convulsion that usually precedes death has developed, the same restorative influence is exerted almost instantly. An animal has even been restored after the cessation of breathing, by maintaining artificial respiration until the glucose could be injected.

If the agency producing such extraordinary results were some new drug, it would be heralded as an amazing addition to the equipment of the physician. That ordinary glucose, a familiar kind of sugar, can work such a miracle is even more astonishing. The experiments give new clues to the function of sugar in the blood; and it is not to be doubted that the knowledge thus acquired will presently be applicable for the alleviation of human maladies.

Every person in the United States will have to eat forty-eight pounds more of potatoes this year if the present crop is to be consumed, according to the U. S. Department of Markets. Normal consumption of potatoes is said to be 3.2 bushels per person, but the bumper crop of this season has resulted in a supply equal to four bushels for each individual. Production is estimated at 438,000,000 bushels.

sy and insanity was outlined by Dr. William Held in an address at an epilepsy clinic at the Illinois Post-Graduate Medical School Tuesday last.

"Epilepsy and insanity are not 'taints,'" Dr. Held declared. "They are simply the result of harmonious functioning of the ductless glands, and they can be cured."

Improper functioning of the glands, he said, produces a toxic condition which results in a "mental cloud." His method of treatment is to determine the glandular deficiency of excess by blood tests and then to restore harmony in the system by injecting suitable glandular extracts.

Dr. Held told the clinic that he had offered President Harding to treat without charge, one hundred cases of returned soldiers suffering from epilepsy.

TOO MUCH MEAT HURTS KIDNEYS

Take a glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if bladder bothers you.

Eating too much meat may produce kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid excites the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so that it no longer irritates, thus often ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.

H. G. Wells has broadened the definition of the word "labor." Speaking to the students of Glasgow University as a candidate for the lord directorship on a "labor" ticket, the author said:

"By labor we mean all creative effort, from the hewing miner in the coal seam up through the ill paid, incessant labor of the village doctor and normal school master and school mistress, to the unsparring toil of the investigator in the research laboratory and the organizing of the industrial manager, by which our civilization is maintained and carried on."

Mr. Wells might have gone a step further and added musicians, painters, sculptors, writers and other artists to the ranks of laborers. For these, too, work creatively. They add something to life, to the enjoyment of life, as the laborer in more tangible material adds to its comfort or convenience.

The distinction between men that is based on whether or not they work with their hands has confused the world for thousands of years. Manual labor has seemed to be something apart from mental or artistic labor. The question to ask, when considering work, is: Does it expand life? Does it help people, either in a practical way, or by giving them thoughts and emotions which lift them above themselves? Bear in mind that there are two necessities—the necessity of the outer man for clothing, food, transportation and the like, and the necessity of the inner for intellectual and moral aid in adjusting himself to the universe. We are then ready to ask the supreme question: Is this work necessary?

Once that question is asked all over the world a great many men are going to change from unprofitable to profitable labor, and be happier thereby. The men will be ashamed of making huge fortunes by juggling prices of securities, by manipulating a nation's food or coal or power supplies, by fomenting wars that they may sell munitions, by building up mammoth organizations for prouing by human greed, credulity and desire to get along without working.

There are really only two brands of humans the thinker need consider: Laborers and parasites, makers and jugglers. And it doesn't much matter if the thing made is a poem that lifts the mind, music which helps one to live, a serviceable saucepan, or a car which will hit regularly on all its cylinders.

Labor is creative effort released in school room or factory or any other place, not primarily for personal profit, but primarily for the service of man.

BIG CHANGE IN SENTIMENT

Voters Who Were Dissatisfied a Few Weeks Ago Now Prosper Ahead and Are Ready and Willing to Give Administration Full Opportunity to Work Out Problem.

Philadelphia, Oct. 31. — The campaign of education which has carried home the record of the Republican administration and its achievements, after the extravagant Democratic administration of waste and inefficiency, has convinced the American voters of the wisdom of maintaining the Republican party in undisputed control of the national government. The feeling of dissatisfaction prevalent in many sections of Pennsylvania, in common with other industrial centers, has entirely disappeared and the latest survey in the State shows that the Republicans of Pennsylvania will not falter in their Republicanism on election day.

"The remarkable change in sentiment shown in the final weeks of the campaign has been surprising," said Representative George S. Graham, Chairman of the Pennsylvania Congressional Committee. "If the registration of voters as received on November 7, Pennsylvania will send one of its largest delegations to the next House. Manual labor political conditions now exist in the State and of course, it is possible that some of the districts, always conceded to the Democrats except in industrial crises, will be reclaimed. It is shown that these districts are manifesting Republican tendencies. All of the Republican districts will return Republican members. Pennsylvania will maintain her position as the leading Republican State in the Union."

HON. GEORGE S. GRAHAM
Chairman of Pennsylvania
Congressional Committee.

Mr. Graham has had very careful canvasses of the districts and has seen some weeks ago manifested this feeling. They show that while there is still some dissatisfaction with the laboring men who have lost heavily from the coal and steel strikes, yet these voters are not blaming the administration with being responsible for their condition. They are saying now that prosperity is here and that it has come as the result of recovery and the protection afforded American industry by a Republican tariff.

What Record Shows.

Attention of the public is called to the national administration in overcoming the worst of the previous administration as summarized by an expert may be maintained for the final consideration of Pennsylvania voters on the eve of election for itself.

Departments of the Government have been vigorously reorganized. Over 75,000 civilian employees have been discharged. The Army has been reduced from 225,000 to 135,000 men. We have reduced the Navy from 134,000 men to 94,000 men. The budget system was created, and accounting and coordination of governmental expense was established for the first time.

Drop in Expenditures.

As a result of hammering for economy in every direction the expenditures of the Federal Government have been reduced from $5,758,000,000 for the year ended June 30, 1921, to an expenditure not exceeding $3,700,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, for which appropriations have already been made, and the budget settled. There has, therefore, been a reduction in expenditure by $1,768,000,000.

In the meantime, between March 3, 1921, and September 30, 1922, the national debt has been reduced from $21,047,000,000 to $2,912,000,000, a reduction of $18,135,000,000.

The Funding Commission has been established to handle the foreign debt. Practically no interest on payments on principal had been made by foreign governments during the previous administration. Under this Funding Commission we are rapidly reaching a settlement with the British Government, which completes 47 per cent of this debt, by which the payments are to begin at once. This will bring into our treasury somewhere from $175,000,000 to $200,000,000 per annum.

Staple Russian Product.

Lined oil, used in this country in pairs is one of the staple edible oils of the world.

with care of our veterans were consolidated and reorganized. When the administration came in there were 200,000 cases of disabled men accumulated and not attended to. They have been cleared up and today over 87,000 disabled men are receiving assistance from the government in one form or another, including vocational training. This is indeed the only increase in expenditure that we have permitted, for here we have used over $100,000,000 per annum from economies in other directions.

Liberty Bonds Restored

Liberty bonds have been restored to par with an increase of 11 per cent in value since March 4, 1921, or a saving of over three billion dollars to the eighteen million holders of Government securities. Gradually the great national debt is being converted into new securities at low rates of interest and with a steady saving to taxpayers.

Taxes have been reduced by over $800,000,000 by repeal of the nuisance taxes and other war taxes. There are some who visualize our Federal expenditures only in the gross sum and who from this assume that by some fairy wand several billion more can be cut off. Better understanding of the character of our expenditures would correct much of this notion. Of this year's budget of some $17,700,000,000 we will find that about $300,000,000 is for clearing up war wreckage which will not recur.

In the great economic crisis in which we were plunged, the Government was beset for legislation and aid. Clamor for a return to our measures by regulation and drastic upon the public treasury were incessant. The administration resolved that most of these troubles could be cured by mobilization of voluntary action. Series of difficult problems have been thus solved. For instance, we were confronted with 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 unemployed and the possibility of a winter of great suffering. With the vast unemployment there came a great demand that the Government should adopt the patient medicine of European countries and give doles to our unemployed from the public treasury. Instead of this the administration called a great conference of representatives of our manufacturers, municipalities and public bodies, and drew up a plan for handling the unemployed by voluntary action of the entire community through the cooperation of employers and business men, through the cooperation of municipalities in expediting public works in progress. Over 200 organizations were created throughout the country, and through all these efforts we passed through the greatest winter of unemployment ever known in our history without a single disturbance, without suffering and without power to any paralyzing or wasteful expenditure of public money.

Reduction in Taxes.

The Harding administration is slow but sure in bringing reduction in taxes, restoring normal conditions, and before long and two years from now the country will find what it is looking for: the application of business methods to government.

"The election of Republicans to Congress is necessary if the policies that have been carried out to success. The reduction of the Republican majority in the House means the crippling of the hand of the administration, constant conflict between the legislative and executive branches, chaos and disorder."

The American voter sees clearly his course and is determined to elect Republicans to Congress to sustain the President so that the administration may have a chance to continue doing the work it has started. He is saying: "We will give it this chance, and if we find that the Republicans have failed at the end of this administration then only will we think of deserting the party which has made the United States prosperous and a nation of high wages and home comforts for the lowliest."

Solid Vote Should Be Pooled.

It is important that the solid Republican vote of Pennsylvania be pooled on election day, not only in the districts where the Democrats are fighting for seats in Congress, but in other districts, where the solid Republican vote will elect the Republican candidate for governor, who is completing a tour of every county in the State, has said on the stump hundreds of times during the last few weeks that he is just as much interested in the election of Senators Pepper and Reed and the Republican candidates for Congress as he is in the election of himself and the Republican candidates for the legislature. Mr. Harding desires the support of a Republican legislature which he becomes governor, which he undoubtedly will have, and he realizes that "President Harding must have the support of a Republican Congress in Washington if the economies he is making in the last eighteen months are to be continued."

This is a year when there is no excuse for any Republican voting anything but the straight Republican ticket. The ablest men and women in the party have been nominated by majorities by the Republican primary. During their short tenure of office in the United States Senate, Senators Pepper and Reed have quickly advanced to positions of great importance and their counsel is being eagerly sought by not only the leaders in Congress, but the President himself. This is a time when the rank and file of the Republican party should go forward in a great body on election day and press its confidence in the ticket by giving the Republican candidates the biggest majorities ever recorded in Pennsylvania. A vote on November 7th will be an easy matter, a single mark in the party column opposite the word "Republican" is all that is necessary.

WRESTLERS READY

FOR BUSINESS

Local wrestling fans will have the opportunity of seeing Bill Gardner,
the local wrestling champ in action
once more, after several months lay-
off, by attending the wrestling bout
at the Globe theatre on Friday evening when Young Strangler Lewis
will endeavor to pin Bill's muscular shoulders to the mat twice within an hour. That is some job all will admit
who have seen Gardner "under fire"
in the past.

Young Strangler Lewis appears to
think he can do the job and stands
to lose a nice bundle of kopecks if
he doesn't make good. He also says
he would like to meet Leslie Roberts
the former Boardman mat artist for
a purse, side bet or any way Roberts and his friends want it.

Nick Bodinis and Ed Gustafson
will meet in the second bout. Bodinis is touted as champion middleweight wrestler of the U. S. Army
and this match will also be worth while.

A good preliminary is also on the program for Friday evening.

Velvet, Crystal and Silver For Formal Evening Gown

By HEDDA HOYT
Special for The United Press
New York, Nov. 1.—(United Press)—It is a fallacy this fall to attempt to design any certain type of silhouettes or material for the formal evening gown. It simply can not be done. Materials have never been so varied nor have they been used in such elaborate combinations. The silhouettes has but one universal idea—length.

One may be straight-lined, semi-circular, as tightly swathed as a mummy, or as bouffant as an early Victorian, and still be in style if one has length of hemline.

Chiffon velvet has the preference for the formal gown and is favored in shades of rose, jade, sapphire blue and amber. When tightly draped about the figure, the velvet gown is usually unadorned, except for the rhinestone buckle which holds the side drapes in place.

In the straight-line models, which fall from the shoulder and only slightly emphasize the figure, these velvets are also heavily beaded in crystal or steel beads or trimmed in ermine. The bouffant types, with the distended hip line, often have flowers of metallic cloth applied in wreath design just above the wide scalloped hem. In nearly every instance the evening gown for this year is left entirely sleeveless, though the shoulder is cut a trifle wider than formerly.

As a trimming for the velvet gown ermine undoubtedly holds the lead. It is prettily used on a gown of bottle green as a narrow border for the circular hem, as a neck and arm finish and in the twisted girle. Again it is seen on a long-bodied gown of black velvet outlining the side panels. Black is usually ornamented in some way this season; either in beading, in silver lace or with touches of fur.

Jenny is responsible for a lovely flame colored gown which has long, silver-lined panels falling from the waist and a silver beaded belt. Many of the Jenny models show a sharply defined contrast between the bodice and the skirt. A pretty frock utilizing this idea has its white velvet-beaded bodice and black velvet skirt joined at the low waist line with a rolled puff of black velvet. Brocaded materials used as bodices and combined with plain skirts also follow the above plan and for the home dress-maker this is perhaps the easiest of the elaborate models which permits copying.

Entire gowns of brocaded metallic cloth are noticed among the imports. One attractive gown of this type is of gold and orange brocaded trimmed about the hem with a border of black monkey fur.

For the dancing frock, chiffon is considered the smartest, as well as the most serviceable material. It is especially nice on the young girl whose proportions do not permit the wearing of the more sumptuous velvets. A gown designed expressly for the mad emoteille, has a long slender bodice of blue taffeta with a skirt of many tiers of chiffon of the same shade, of blue, gathered into ruffles. Lavender velvet roses finish the low waist line and the off-the-shoulder neckline. The young miss of this season prefers quaint, piquant types of frocks with the slightly wired hips to the form-fitting silhouettes. Where one has square, ungainly shoulders, the bertha effects may be used in preference to the wide shoulder line.

Some Age-Old Superstitions.
Many people would rather "die" than decorate any part of the house with peacocks' feathers, and to open an umbrella in the house is equally unlucky. Spilling salt is a real disaster, and the only way to get rid of the inevitable result is to fling a pinch "to the fairies" over the left shoulder.

and there were knickknacks and ornaments about the place reminiscent of the pastor and his home life with Mrs. Hall.

Mrs. Gibson Protests
Mrs. Gibson told reporters today that "they are seeking to discredit my story to protect the woman I named as present at the murders."

She made this assertion over the telephone, reporters unanimously using that mode of communication with her since she fired at shotgun at a group of photographers yesterday.

"People who are attacking me want money and influence and the people they want to protect have money and influence and that explains the whole business," Mrs. Gibson charged.

"I am sorry for this woman. But this thing was on my mind, and I just had to tell it after I saw that other people who knew all about it had no intention of giving their information to authorities."

Mrs. Gibson will be confronted with the three male suspects to see if she can identify one of them as the murderer, it was learned today.

The suspects will be lined up before her with a dozen others.

Ermine "Royal"
The beauty of ermine caused it to be worn by royalty and it was made a punishable offense for any persons except those of royal birth to wear it. This restriction has long been removed, but the fur still enjoys royal favor.

Choir Singer's

as near as you can recollect?

A.—On that evening?

Q.—Yes.

Events of Evening

A.—We had our supper about 6:30 and I went out on the porch for a little while. After that I had Mr. Hall's little niece with me, his brother was there and Mr. Hall was here at supper time. I stayed out on the porch for a while and then a little later came in with this little girl that was with me and played games with her for a while until half past eight or a quarter to nine, somewhere along there, and put her to bed—went upstairs at least and put her to bed and came down again, somewhere around after nine. I should say, and and sat here in the library reading until about half past 10, and then I went upstairs and prepared for bed and waited for Mr. Hall to come in, and I went to bed but I did not go to sleep.

Q.—And between the time that he left the house and the time that you went out with your brother in the early morning and did not at any time leave this house?

—No.

Q.—Do you know now Mrs. Hall, from whom that telephone call was from that evening?

A.—They told me it was from a Mrs. Mills, but I only know that from the outside.

Q.—You did not overhear any of the conversation?

A.—No.

Never on Phillips' Farm

Q.—Have you ever been to the Phillips farm in your life that you know of?

A.—I did not know until later that it was the old DeRussey place. As a child I have been there twice.

Q.—About how long were you absent from your house Thursday night?

A.—It was about half past two when I dressed and got up, and I was back here about half past three. It was about that time.

Sits Motionless

Mrs. Hall sat motionless most of the time during the interview. Dressed in a simple black dress with a silk scarf thrown over her shoulders, her garb set off her white hair and pale complexion.

She answered questions in a low but audible voice. Once or twice she smiled.

Only once did she object to a question. That was when her attitude toward divorce and what she would have done had she been informed of the pastor's romance with the choir singer was asked.

"I cannot answer that," she said firmly, and that was all there was to it.

The pastor's widow explained her silence since the tragedy, that she had all her life sought to avoid publicity.

She said she wanted no one punished for the crime.

"I believe a murderer is not a fit person to be at large," she said "but I have absolutely no feeling of vindictiveness."

At the end of the interview she was calm and smiling as she said good-bye.

The interview took place in the front parlor of the Stevens home in Nichol ave.

This was the home of Dr. Hall also,

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS

CURWENSVILLE

Bruce Porter of Clearfield circulated among Curwensville friends and acquaintances yesterday.

James Maneval, a musician in the U. S. navy, and located at the Norfolk navy yard, came home yesterday to attend the funeral of his adopted mother, Mrs. Wilson Maneval.

Steve Myrsky, who moved to Cleveland about three years ago, has brought his family back to Curwensville where they will reside in the future. Steve says that if a man cannot make a living in Clearfield county, there is not much use of his trying anywhere else.

William Gardlock and his father, Chris Gardlock, who have been working at Greenville, Pa., during the summer, are home for a few days visit with their respective families. William expects to return to the western part of the State this coming Friday.

J. M. McKinley came home from Clearfield hospital Tuesday where he underwent an operation, having had some bones removed from his nose which had been giving him considerable trouble for some time. He expects to be greatly benefited by having the obstruction removed.

The dance held in the American Legion rooms Tuesday evening proved to be a great success, both from a financial and social standpoint. The rooms were crowded all the evening with dancers and spectators, both participants and onlookers passing an unusually entertaining evening.

The pupils in the juvenile departments of the public schools held an entertainment of their own Tuesday afternoon. Many of them were costumed, and after rehearsing a short literary program were treated to refreshments consisting of candy, cakes and ice cream, which the little shavers devoured with great relish, wishing that "All Saints Day" would come at least one day in every week. Miss Aurand and the two Misses Moore joined forces and had their pupils all in one room, and that trio certainly gave the kids a most pleasant afternoon. Locust street and South Side teachers entertained with about the same program, in their respective departments.

A change has been consummated in business circles this week. The James L. Smith furniture emporium has been taken over by John L. McLaughlin and Edward Gallagher, who purchased the entire stock and store fixtures, and took possession of the same on Wednesday morning. The new firm will be known as the McLaughlin Furniture Company, and the business will be conducted principally by Mr. McLaughlin, who has had a number of years' experience along that line and is thoroughly acquainted with the trade. Failing health was Mr. Smith's reason for disposing of his store. The purchasers are both young men with hustling ability and predictions have been made already that they will soon do a thriving business, not only in this town but the surrounding territory as well.

On Monday evening Mrs. Dean Hile, together with thirty-five of her mother's friends, arranged a masquerade Halloween surprise party for Mrs. Hile's mother, Mrs. Elmer Bloom, State street, who was very much surprised to say the least. The event was a royal success from start to finish. Prizes were given for the most artistically dressed Halloweeners. Mrs. Ashley McDowell, Mrs. J. C. Collins and Miss Isabel Smay were the fortunate ones to win prizes. One feature of the evening's entertainment was a mock wedding, the bride being White and the groom Black. Delicious refreshments were served and when all were ready to depart for their homes, voted the party to have been the best that it had ever been their privilege to attend.

Saturday afternoon Curwensville football fans will have another chance to see the C. H. S. squad in action on the home grounds. The Cooper township harvesters will be on hand and will make a big effort to win out on the tally sheet. The Cooperites have a record as a pretty nifty team and play the game for all there is to be gotten out of it. Neither the C. H. S. nor Cooper team is composed of roughnecks, so that all who wish to see a clean, hard-fought contest paddle down to the old ball ground on Saturday afternoon, drop your admittance fee into the mitt of the man at the gate and root for all your lungs are worth.

What Else?

A MASQUERADE DANCE

A masquerade dance and party was held at the residence of Emmett B. Leas, 608 Martin street, last evening. The evening was spent in playing games and dancing. About seventy-five were present. After refreshments were served and all departed for their homes.

Onar Khoyyam.

Onar Khoyyam was a Persian poet, astronomer and mathematician, born at Nishapur, in Khorasan. His scientific works, which were of high value in their day, have been eclipsed by his "Rubaiyat," a collection of about 500 epigrams in praise of wine, love and pleasure, and at the same time depressingly pessimistic. He died in Nishapur in 1123.

Endless Romance Nipped.

I was eight and he was ten. We attended the same school and our two graces were in the same room. When 4 o'clock came his grade rose and marched out of the room first. When he reached the door he would turn toward me slightly and I would wink at him. One evening the teacher caught me whispering and kept me after school. You can imagine that put a quick stop to that budding romance. —Chicago Journal.

Birds With Copper Feathers.

In the bird house up at the north end of the Zoological park in New York is a cage of toucans, an African bird of brilliantly colored plumage. In the wings is a dash of red, and we are told by the placard that the peculiar thing about the color is that it is caused by the presence of 7 per cent of copper. —Engineering and Mining Journal-Pross.

YOUNG LADIES ENTERTAIN AT DELIGHTFUL MASQUERADE

Halloween sprites, goblins and witches to the number of twenty-five carried after the usual Saints' Day festivities to attend a post-Halloween party given in the Ladies' Rest Room at the Driving Park last evening by Misses Kathryn Remmsnyder and Margaret Wyant, and Mrs. Guy Fenton. The hostesses had arranged a full evening of entertainment for their guests and the entire party made merry at many new and unique games. Lunch provided an enjoyable interim in the series of stunts and added to the reputation of the hostesses as the best of entertainers. It was indeed a most complete and merry party, voted by all those attending as the best of the season.

Different Types of Sea Buoys.

There are 40 different types of buoys used at sea, each of which has a meaning of its own. That of a green color, for instance, marks a wreck, while others similarly distinctive show where rocks, shoals, sandbanks and deep-water channels occur.

First Users of Cigarettes?

The cigarette was popular in Spain in the latter part of the Eighteenth century. The cigarette was invented in the Spanish West Indies at least as far back as 1750, and in his "Travels in Spain," published in 1775, Richard Twiss refers to the many Spaniards who "smoke tobacco shired fine swart up in a piece of paper."

Musterole is easy to apply and it gets in its good work right away. Often it prevents a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. Just apply Musterole with the fingers. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster without the blister.

Musterole is a clean white ointment made of oil of mustard and other home simples. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the neck and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chubains, frost-bite—colds of all sorts. ERIE MAN IS SWORN IN AS DEPUTY U. S. MARSHAL

Pittsburgh, Nov. 2.—Captain John F. Austin, of Corry, Erie county, former postmaster of Corry and a veteran of the Spanish-American War, yesterday was sworn in as a deputy United States marshal, the oath being administered by J. Wood Clark, clerk of the United States District Court. Capt. Austin was appointed by United States Marshal James C. McGregor to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Deputy Marshal Ira C. McCloskey of Clearfield county.

Capt. Austin served as postmaster during the McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft presidential administrations. In the Spanish-American War he served in Porto Rico under Col. Willis J. Hallings as commander of Company A, Sixteenth Pennsylvania Regiment. Among his friends he is known as "Capt. Jack."
